McNutt Named Chief of U. S. Security Body

Observers Wonder if Job Means Boost To Presidency

NEW DEAL LINK

Nomination Brings Hoosier in Alignment With F. D. R's Policies

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt today nominated Paul V. McNutt to be federal security administrator.

McNutt, who now is American high commissioner to the Philippines, has indicated he will retain his present post of several weeks in order to clear up details.

The nomination, if confirmed, will bring into the administration the Democrat whose candidacy for the presidency in 1940 has been advocated openly by his friends. Whether President Roosevelt is giving him a boost toward the Democratic nomination for president in 1940, or whether the president is merely providing him a chance to show what he can do, was an argued point.

GETS NEW POST
Paul V. McNutt (above) today was nominated by President Roosevelt to be federal security administrator. In political circles the appointment was seen as a possible boost to the presidency in 1940.

Heads New Agency
The former governor of Indiana will head one of three new agencies created under a plan for reorganization of the government. It will give him control over the social security board, CCC, national youth administration, public health service and various other agencies.

In the air-cooled senate and house cloakrooms, in the shady Georgetown gardens and even on steamy street corners the question is the same.

Does the appointment mean that President Roosevelt is giving the retiring high commissioner to the Philippines a boost toward the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination?

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), who recently declined consideration as a vice presidential candidate, said flatly the object was "to build up McNutt for 1940."

Bound to New Deal
There is general agreement in political circles that McNutt's selection puts him in direct alignment with the New Deal forces. Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) commented that he is "placing his whole political destiny in the president's hands."

While in the Philippines, McNutt was not involved in American internal politics, and there had been speculation that he might seek the presidential nomination as a compromise or middle-of-the-road candidate between the New Deal and anti-Roosevelt factions. Asked on his arrival here last Thursday about "this middle-of-the-road business," McNutt replied:

"That is usually the safest place to drive when the road is clear it is."

No Third Term Race?
The tanned, white-haired former Indiana governor said at the same time that everything done in behalf of his candidacy had been on the assumption that Mr. Roosevelt would not run for a third term.

Anti-Roosevelt senators who have been favoring Vice President Garner for the presidential nomination professed to see little significance in the federal security appointment. Senator Burke (D-Neb.) said it "won't affect Garner, for as far as I know McNutt hasn't any delegates yet."

The first word of McNutt's acceptance of the security post came last night from Columbus, Ohio, when he rejected an offer to become president of Ohio State university. The security position is one of three major administrative jobs created by the new government organization program.

McNutt will be 48 years old next week Wednesday. A native of Franklin, Ind., he taught at the Indiana University Law school after

Begin Action In Council's Wage Dispute

Seek to Establish Legality of Salary Referendum

CITY DEFENDANT

Ordered to Contest Claim For Yearly Pay Of $500

The aldermanic salary controversy which has been an issue in city hall for the last six months, was brought to a head Monday when the city and two city officers were named defendants in an action started to establish the legality of the salary referendum adopted by voters last April.

The referendum, adopted by a 3 to 1 majority, cut the wages of aldermen from $500 per year to $250 per year. Since April 18 councilmen's checks have been issued on the basis of $250 per year but no alderman has accepted his checks.

Ordered to appear in municipal court within 20 days to contest the action were the city of Appleton, Carl J. Becher, city comptroller, and Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer.

Aldermen Plaintiffs
Plaintiffs in the action are Appleton's 18 aldermen represented by the firm of Benton, Bosser, Becker and Parnell, who claim that each alderman is entitled to $500 per year. The plaintiffs also ask payment of the costs of the action and "such other and further relief as may be found just and proper."

The notice was signed by Alfred C. Bosser, attorney, and Alderman George Brautigan, as one of the plaintiffs. The petition for a cut in aldermanic wages and the resulting referendum, adopted by the people, only started the controversy. Although there was plenty of talk and city hall noting definite was done until May 17 when aldermen, unanimously ordered the city comptroller and treasurer to pay on the basis of $500 per year.

The two officers refused, contending that the cut was voted by the people and it was their job to see that it was carried out. Then aldermen got busy, had several informal meetings and finally retained an attorney to investigate the legality of the referendum and to bring the case to court to find out whether they are to get $500 per year or $250.

Government Sues 6 Oil Companies

Action for $3,000,000 Started in Los Angeles Federal Court

Los Angeles—(P)—Charging monopoly, the United States attorney general sued six major oil companies for $3,000,000 in federal court today.

The government seeks to establish the right of the secretary of interior to fix minimum royalty prices for oil and gas taken from federal lands and to collect royalties claimed due in the Kettleman hills north dome field.

Francis B. Critchlow and James A. Murray, special assistants to the attorney general, charge that since 1931 the major companies have monopolized the market for Kettleman hills crude oil and that the prices posted by them have been "non-competitive, arbitrary, unreasonable and inadequate; less than the price currently posted and paid by said defendants in other California fields for comparable crude and less than the value of such oil."

They also allege that immense quantities of natural gas have been taken from the field and improvidently marketed.

The action asks the defendants be ordered to pay $2,500,000 in royalties based on minimum valuations set by the interior department, or $3,000,000 based on the actual value of oil and gas produced.

Defendants are General Petroleum corporation of California, Standard Oil company of California; Shell company, Inc., Tidewater Associated Oil company, Union Oil company of California and the Texas company, named as the six major firms. Other defendants include Continental Oil company, Kettleman North Dome association, George F. Getty, Inc., Carrie Estelle Doherty and Lucy Smith Batson.

Sheriff Spencer C. Howarth said state aid was being asked because of the few men local officials had available.

"I only have 14 men and there aren't more than 50 in the Pontiac Police department," Howarth said. "It is now time to call the state police."

At East Lansing, Captain Laurence A. Lyon of the state police said he would wait a further report on the strike situation before deciding whether to assign his men to strike duty.

Both policemen and sheriff's officers were on hand during this morning's fighting.

Freighter's Anchor Breaks Off Cables

San Francisco—(P)—Wire communication with Angel Island where the deportation hearing for Harry Bridges is being held—was broken today by an anchor from the Japanese freighter Atutsumaru, which snapped telephone and telegraph cables as it was dropped in San Francisco bay.

DIES AT CAPITAL
Congressman Sam D. McReynolds of Tennessee, chairman of the house foreign relations committee, died early today at the national capital. Heart disease was given as the immediate cause of death, although McReynolds had been ill for months.

S. D. McReynolds Of Tennessee Dies Of Heart Disease

Headed House Foreign Relations Committee; Was Party Leader

Washington—(P)—Representative Sam D. McReynolds of Tennessee, died at 6:15 a. m. (5:15 a. m. C.S.T.) today.

McReynolds, 67, was chairman of the house foreign relations committee and stood high in Democratic party circles.

Dr. George W. Calver, capital physician, said McReynolds had been ill "of and on" all year and that the immediate cause of death was a heart attack. He had been in the Naval hospital for months and only recently had been permitted to go to his home here.

The Chattanooga was a close friend of Secretary Cordell Hull and was active in promoting administration matters touching on all aspects of foreign affairs. His absence from the floor at this session was a factor, friends said, in preventing the administration so far from getting neutrality legislation in the form it desired.

McReynolds had been a member of congress since 1922. In 1933, he was an American delegate to the international monetary and economic conference in London.

Discuss Possibility Of Negotiations on Question of Danzig

London—(P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain's hint of a possible conference table settlement of the Danzig dispute if there were a "clearer atmosphere" broadened today into an international discussion of chances for negotiation.

While the British press played up the prime minister's avowal that any preemptory German annexation of the Baltic free port would be a fighting matter, there also was emphasis on the point that he left the door ajar for adjustments of Danzig's status.

Semi-official French sources advanced a suggestion, which they indicated had Polish approval. It was that Germany be permitted to incorporate Danzig technically into the reich upon guaranteeing that the free city would continue as a demilitarized zone and that Poland could continue to navigate the Vistula river and use the port as at present.

Poland welcomed Chamberlain's pronouncement as making clear she had the support of the western powers. The Poles considered it necessary to convince Berlin that there was a limit beyond which Nazi activities in Danzig would not be tolerated.

13-Month-Old Child Drowns Near Kenosha

Kenosha—(P)—Two small girls yesterday saw what they thought was a "doll" floating face down in Lake Michigan, 15 miles west of here. They waded out and found it was 13-month-old Sonya Ann Giddings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Giddings, Chicago vacationers. Firemen and others were unable to revive the child.

The infant was seen toddling toward the lake 15 minutes before the girls made their discovery.

Order to Cut Phone Rates Is Set Aside

High Court Also Backs Hoppmann in Shelving Temporary Reduction

LONG LEGAL FIGHT

Litigation Outgrowth of Plea in 1930 for Right To Boost Rates

Madison—(P)—The state supreme court today ruled illegal the orders of the public service commission directing the Wisconsin Telephone company to reduce its rates.

Customers of the utility had approximately $6,000,000 at stake in the litigation, which had been under way for eight years, five of which were spent by the commission in an accounting investigation.

The supreme court in a decision written by Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry affirmed the action of Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann of Dane county, who held that the commission was biased in its judgments and unreasonable in its orders.

State counsel studied the decision today to determine whether they had grounds for an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

Foremost among the orders set aside was the commission's final one issued in 1936. It directed the company to make a permanent annual reduction of $863,000 in exchange rates.

Interim Order
Another was the interim order of 1934 requiring the company to cut rates $1,017,711 from Aug. 5, 1934 to Aug. 4, 1935.

This was one of three temporary reduction orders issued while the investigation was in progress and criticized by the supreme court as having been imposed upon the company before all the evidence was presented.

Two other temporary orders, which called for reductions of $1,588,281 in the years of 1932-33 and $1,477,310 for 1933-34 were enjoined in federal court pending final action by the state court.

While they were not directly involved in the supreme court decisions they came within the classification of orders which the court said the commission had no authority to issue.

In the federal and circuit courts the company had deposited the amounts involved in all orders and

Confessed Killer Found to be Sane

Sheriff Thinks Dolezal Has Revealed Hiding Place of Woman's Head

Cleveland—(P)—Frank Dolezal, confessed slayer of one of Cleveland's 12 "torso murder" victims, was declared sane by two county psychiatrists after two hours' examination today.

Dolezal, 52-year-old former bricklayer and butcher, was examined by Drs. S. C. Lindsey and K. S. West.

Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell said he was convinced Dolezal had disclosed last night the true hiding place of the head of Mrs. Florence Polillo, victim No. 3 in the series of headless dead, and that Dolezal would be asked to sign a new confession.

Dolezal told a third story about disposition of the head while taking a lie-detector test, the sheriff said. He then led officers to a spot on the lake front not far from where the eleventh and twelfth headless dead were found last August.

O'Donnell quoted Dolezal as saying:

"I took it to near E. Twenty-sixth street on the lakefront, where I was working on WPA. I got there at 6 in the morning, ahead of the other workers. I put it in a little hole by the steam shovel. Then I covered it with some dirt. Then the steam shovel dumped more dirt over it. It might be 20 feet down."

The sheriff said no effort would be made to find the head because excavations and fill-in work had made it impossible to determine its exact location.

Await Coroner's Jury Verdict on Fatality

Madison—(P)—Walter M. Bjork, acting district attorney, said today the verdict of a coroner's jury would determine whether Corporal Philip Hartley, 28, of Milwaukee, would be charged with manslaughter in the death of Walter H. Trush, 29, of Beloit, a private in the Wisconsin Guard.

Dane county authorities have charged Hartley with driving under the influence of liquor at the time a United States Army truck enroute to Camp Douglas, overturned and burned near Oregon Saturday, killing Trush.

Bjork disclosed the criminal charge of manslaughter was recommended by Adjutant General Ralph M. Immel in a letter reviewing findings of a military board that investigated the crash.

The acting prosecutor declared "the district attorney's office has good reason to believe that manslaughter had been committed," but added the law requires a report from a coroner's jury before a criminal charge is filed. A jury hearing is scheduled tomorrow.

Senate Committee Votes to Postpone Neutrality Action

POLICEMAN KILLED IN WPA STRIKE
A policeman was fatally injured in violence that flared in Minneapolis when flying pickets descended on non-strikers on a WPA sewing project. One of several persons injured, Frank Fischer, 45 (between policemen) was taken to a hospital for treatment after the conflict.

Congress Gets Proposals to Change WPA Hour Provisions; Minneapolis Officer Is Slain

Washington—(P)—With practically all WPA construction projects in Milwaukee county closed because of an employees' strike, WPA officials conferred today on the question of asking police protection for men who want to work.

After voting the plan of District Director Sanford P. Starks to open several of the larger projects under police protection today, Philip D. Flanner, state administrator, came to Milwaukee to discuss the matter with Starks.

Washington—(P)—Congress today had received proposals to change hour provisions of the new WPA law, while one death was attributed to violence growing out of strikes.

In Minneapolis, Patrolman Frank Gearty, 42, died after an outburst of violence on a WPA picket line.

The strikes, protesting a new provision abolishing the "prevailing wage" schedules of hourly pay continued in some cities, although there were reports of workers returning to their jobs elsewhere.

The new provision requires 130 hours of work a month, thus lowering the hourly wage of many workers.

Representative Sabath (D-Ill.), chairman of the house rules committee, introduced yesterday the first of a number of bills eliminating the 130-hour requirement.

Harrington Firm
The hour fixed for dismissal of the first WPA employees to go on strike against provisions of the new relief law arrived today, and Colonel F. C. Harrington, the national WPA commissioner, stood pat on his order requiring the dismissal.

How many persons lost their places on the work relief rolls when they failed to report for work this morning was uncertain. Officials here declined to estimate pending reports from the field.

Harrington had notified thousands of WPA employees, striking against the new law's requirement

Truck Driver Faces Manslaughter Charge

Fond du Lac—(P)—District Attorney George M. St. Peter said yesterday a fourth degree manslaughter warrant was issued for Aaron Zieleske of route 3, Campbellsport, as driver of a truck which collided with an automobile near Byron Saturday, causing fatal injuries to David, 27, Fond du Lac musician.

The warrant accused Zieleske with operating the truck "with gross negligence" and at "reckless speed." Earlier a reckless driving charge had been filed against Zieleske by Sheriff's Officer Paul Coleman.

Green Bay Man Killed When Struck by Train

Green Bay—(P)—Gabriel Schirk, 41, Green Bay, was killed yesterday when struck by a North Western road passenger train.

Schirk, who has a farm on the outskirts of the city, was walking alongside his horse and wagon with a load of marsh hay.

A son, Andre, 15, walking back of the wagon, saw the train and shouted a warning, but it came too late. The widow and six children survive.

Hull Says Administration Will Continue Battle

VOTE IS 12 TO 11

Roosevelt Wants to Force Decision During Current Term

Washington—(P)—Secretary Hull announced today shortly after a senate committee had voted for postponement of neutrality legislation until next session that in the interest of "peace and security" the administration would continue to urge adoption of its program.

Hull's statement was made after he conferred with President Roosevelt.

It followed by about two hours a 12-11 vote of the senate foreign relations committee in favor of giving no further consideration to revision of the neutrality law at this session.

Disclosure of the administration stand indicated to many that President Roosevelt had no intention of permitting the committee's decision to stand in the way of new legislation before adjournment if he can swing a majority of the senate to his view.

Hull reiterated the six points of the administration program as:

Stresses 6 Points

"1. To prohibit American ships, irrespective of what they may be carrying, from entering combat areas.

"2. To restrict travel by American citizens in combat areas.

"3. To provide that the export of goods destined for belligerents shall be preceded by transfer of title to the foreign purchasers.

"4. To continue the existing legislation respecting loans and credits to nations at war.

"5. To regulate the solicitation and collection in this country of funds for belligerents.

"6. To continue the national munitions control board and the system of arms export and import licenses."

Vote For Delay
Senators Gillette (D-Iowa) and George (D-Ga.), the previously doubtful members of the committee, voted for the delay.

Others who voted to postpone included: Senators Reynolds (D-N.C.) Van Nuys (D-Ind.), Clark (D-Mo.), Shipstead (R-Linn.), White (R-Maine), Vandenberg (R-Mich.), LaFollette (P-Wis.), Johnson (R-Calif.), Capper (R-Kan.) and Borah (R-Idaho).

The postponement came as a crushing blow to administration hopes, for forcing action of the law in this session in the hope of obtaining repeal of the arms embargo of the present law.

There were immediate reports, however, that Democrat Leader Barkley would seek to take the issue to the floor despite the committee action. He could do this if he could get senate approval of a motion to discharge the committee from consideration of the legislation.

The vote disclosed a greater unanimity of purpose among opponents of the administration neutrality program than had been indicated prior to the committee session.

Barkley declined to say immediately what he would do. He told reporters only that "the vote speaks for itself."

Senator Minton (D-Ind.), majority whip, said any decision about forcing the measure out of committee probably would be made by President Roosevelt.

Talk of the likelihood of a special session immediately sprang up. It grew out of the possibility that world events might develop such a measure as to make neutrality action advisable before next session.

Minton told newsmen that "if the world situation does not improve it is possible the president might call

New York Broker in Around-the-World Journey in 3 Weeks

Port Washington, N. Y.—(P)—Three weeks ago Norman C. Lee, a New York broker, walked into an airline office and planked $1,800 on the counter and said "I want to go around the world." He got back today.

It took him just nine hours less than three weeks to circumnavigate the globe by scheduled airline, the first man ever to do it. He made no record in time but he did make a record in the sparseness of his conversation in describing the trip.

"It was nice," he said.

When Lee stepped from Pan-American Airways' Atlantic Clipper this morning, after a flight from Marseilles, France, by way of Lisbon and Horta, he had traveled 24,694 miles to get back where he started from.

He said he took the trip because it seemed like a good idea. Everything was fine he said except for a little yowling air between Hong Kong and Bangkok, Siam.

State Law Would Limit Taverns to 1 for 500 Persons

Siebert Bill Approved by Senate: Decrease Will Be Gradual

Madison—The Siebert bill which would limit the number of taverns in Wisconsin to one for each 500 of population was approved by the senate late yesterday.

The bill, passed by the assembly, was ordered up for final passage after a motion to non-concur lost, 15 to 9. If concurrence is voted, the measure returns to the assembly for approval of amendments eliminating qualifying clauses.

Taverns now licensed "could not be affected, but a gradual reduction, as annual licenses expire, would be required in communities which are over the maximum specified in the bill.

Recommencing a day earlier than usual after the weekend recess, the senate disposed of several miscellaneous items.

The Progressive minority, by parliamentary procedure, blocked efforts of Maurice Conkley of Beloit, Republican leader, to obtain a final vote on the welfare department bill and the administrative board of review bill, both administration reorganization proposals. Eight senators were absent.

State school buses would be painted red, white and blue, under an assembly bill with which the senate concurred. It also concurred in an assembly bill providing that automobile dealers must turn the speedometers of used cars back to zero. The Peterson bill which would have allowed hunting on posted lands only by owners or tenants was killed.

Senator Harry Bolens (D) Port Washington revealed he would sponsor a bill repealing the law under which each legislator may award a scholarship to some out of state student.

Bolens recently produced figures purporting to show it costs $681 annually to educate a University of Wisconsin student. He made the statement during debate yesterday on the Genzmer bill which would establish a scholarship for one 4-H club boy and girl in each of the 10 congressional districts.

The senate returned the Genzmer bill to the assembly without approval when opponents said it would cost the state $20,000.

MINNEAPOLIS POLICEMAN DIES AFTER WPA STRIKE RIOT

Patrolman Frank Gearty (left), 40, was fatally hurt when he helped rescue a non-striking WPA worker on a sewing project from an estimated 1,000 demonstrators who were protesting the new 130-hour work month. Gearty is shown as an attempt to put the worker aboard a streetcar was thwarted.

May Seek Funds For New, Better Postal Quarters

58 Badger Communities Eligible for Building Projects

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau—Washington—Fifty-eight towns in Wisconsin would have a chance to get a new or improved post office building if congress should approve an amendment Senator James M. Mead, New York Democrat, plans to propose to the final deficiency appropriations bill of this session of congress.

Unless the bill, as it comes from the house of representatives, provides for a federal building program to provide postal facilities in cities and towns where the post offices are overcrowded, unsafe, or are in costly leased buildings, Mead will introduce an amendment appropriating $25,000,000 to continue the federal building program.

He says that $50,000,000 could be "wisely invested" in such structures this year, but because of the economy program, he had cut this figure in half so that the most urgent projects can be built. In the end, these buildings will save the government money, he believes.

List Eligible Cities

Among the cities in the Appleton area eligible to receive new or improved post offices, with the proposed limit of cost of each project, are:

Algoma, $70,000; DePere, $75,000; Kiel, $70,000; Manitowish, $330,000; Peshtigo, $70,000; Pulaski, $70,000; Stevens Point, $150,000; West DePere, $70,000.

The additional money for Green Bay's new federal building, also might be made available out of this fund, if it is appropriated.

The joint public buildings committee previously allotted $250,000 to extend and remodel the present federal building, but now has decided that it needs a new building, estimated to cost about $500,000. It would be built on a site which the government would acquire by exchanging the present federal building for a lot owned by the county.

Showers, Supply Tent are Most Popular as Guardsmen Encamp

BY A TIRED SOLDIER

After an enjoyable train ride company D, 127th Infantry arrived at Camp Douglas at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Within an hour all tents were up and the equipment put away. Members of the company were assigned to the various squads in which they will remain throughout the encampment. Machine gun squads are those of Corporal Pete Guckenberg with Clarence Wundrow as gunner; Corporal Ted Wulterkens with Bob Green as gunner; Corporal George Kerrigan with Bill Pohlborn as gunner; and Corporal John Melzer with Ralph Scherbel as gunner.

Meals down at camp will be the best we have ever had if the menus are any indication. Lunch on the train consisted of cold pork roast, baked potato, bread and orange. The rookies were none too shy about getting their share of the wieners and kraut which we had for supper.

The showers and the supply tent where refreshments are available were the most popular spots on the company street.

Private Bob Merkel thinks he has established some sort of a record by getting a letter less than a half hour after we had arrived in camp. He is also very popular on the company street because he has a portable radio. Corporal Melzer's squad will have plenty of music because they have Merkel's radio and another brought down by Private Bob Kramhold.

Practically all of the men were in bed before taps and Private Bob Kessler claims the record because he went to bed at 8 o'clock.

SUNDAY

Reveille was at 6:30 a. m. today but plenty of us were up before the cannon was fired and the band began its five minute parade. The late campers were up by 7 o'clock.

The bodies also were authorized to maintain the building and grounds, but not to exceed the $2,000 appropriated by the city of Kaukauna. The vote of the supervisors was 49 to 3.

Transfer Funds

Transfer of $5,000 from the general to the farm-to-market fund was authorized to permit crushing of farm-to-market stone, each municipality to get 200 and the city of Appleton 500 yards. The money will be replaced in the general fund after a levy is made in November. The vote was 32 to 20.

Supervisor Lloyd Lang said he was opposed to the project unless the distribution of the stone is made on the basis of contribution by the various municipalities. He pointed out that at present some municipalities are paying out of proportion to the amount of stone they receive.

The special committee investigating the possible necessity of creating a county purchasing committee of the board to complete its report. Supervisor Lang asked for a report on the progress of the committee saying that the investigation "reflects on every supervisor, and facts should be shown if it is to be continued."

Supervisor Louis Bonini, Appleton, was asked the investigation, said that the committee has compiled a list of things "unfair." He added that no publicity is to be given out until the report is completed and that "we are going to make charges."

The board will reconvene on Sept. 11.

Church services were held this morning with Catholic mass at 8 o'clock and regimental services, which all men attend, being held at the grave of Colonel Williams, founder of the camp. Members of the 106th cavalry regiment composed of units from Illinois and Michigan and regular army also attended the services.

Sergeant Max Buell is in charge of quarters and the first platoon was on police detail. Sanitary detail consisted of Privates Arndt, Arps, Bellin and Bauer. Kitchen police were De Long, Feibelkorn and Marvin Green.

We are all looking forward to dinner because our cook really outdoes himself on visitors' day. The menu for dinner is baked ham, cole slaw, mashed potatoes, buttered peas, bread pudding and lemonade. Gust Karas, chef at Hotel Appleton, is our civilian cook with Privates Martin Anderson and Kermit Maynard as assistant cooks.

Organize Club

The "Nelson Club" has reorganized again this year with five members. Corporal "Thor" Tracy is president, Vic Mattson, secretary and treasurer, and Private Marv Green is the janitor. Members have been considering Private "Bergie" Bergner for membership but he hasn't furnished the gallon of refreshments which are necessary for membership.

A newly organized group, the German Club is expected to furnish no little entertainment for us with their German songs and dances with accordion music by Private Ray Sager. Sergeant Paul Kobal and so far performers in the group.

Private Bill Hansen covered a lot of territory this morning when he was looking for a mythical lawn mower to cut the grass on the company street. Private Frances Bellin is accused of keeping the fellows in his tent awake by his loud snoring. He says they are all wrong because he didn't sleep last night. Private John Bauer is given the honor of having the biggest appetite in the company. "Balmey" cleans up everything on the table. Private Johnny Kuchenbecker must have spots in front of his eyes from dice games down "C" company street which is next to ours on police detail this morning. He has signed up for wrestling at camp this year along with Private Vic Mattson who will enter both boxing and wrestling. Private Monroe Schneider is a potato peeling expert. He says he can do a good job on any "spud" with three strokes of a knife.

Members of the Wulterkens squad are holding the record for mail so far. Privates Bob Green, Sam La Rue and Chris Leeuw have already started "pen pushing." Private De Leeuw also says that he should be getting a letter tomorrow, but Bob Green is willing to give him ten to one odds against it. We would like to remind all of the friends of company men that letters from home are very much appreciated. The address here at camp is: Company D, 127th Infantry, Camp Douglas, Wisconsin.

Transfer Funds

Transfer of $5,000 from the general to the farm-to-market fund was authorized to permit crushing of farm-to-market stone, each municipality to get 200 and the city of Appleton 500 yards. The money will be replaced in the general fund after a levy is made in November. The vote was 32 to 20.

Supervisor Lloyd Lang said he was opposed to the project unless the distribution of the stone is made on the basis of contribution by the various municipalities. He pointed out that at present some municipalities are paying out of proportion to the amount of stone they receive.

Chamberlain Makes It Clear Britain Will Fight if Polish Independence Is Threatened

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—British Premier Chamberlain finally has let the all-but-suffocated cat out of the bag by pinning down for the first time how far England is prepared to go in fighting for Poland in the latter's dispute with Germany over Danzig.

In a historic statement before the house of commons, Mr. Chamberlain dismissed the idea, prevailing in many quarters, that it would take German annexation of Danzig by force to make Britain go to war.

The premier declared in effect that Britain was ready to fight for Poland even if there were no aggression but Danzig quietly voted herself reincorporated in the reich. That is, England would fight if Poland regarded this as a threat to her independence and saw fit to defend her position with arms.

France in Accord

This statement had the advance approval of both France and Poland. That means France is prepared to fight with England on the grounds specified.

The man with the umbrella, die-hard exponent of appeasement, didn't forsake his search for peace even in the midst of this blunt declaration, for he interjected: "It may be that in a clearer atmosphere possible improvements (in the status of Danzig) could be discussed."

And from Nazi newspapers in Germany came the reply that may be negotiations might get somewhere after all.

Whether Mr. Chamberlain's statement will improve the situation remains to be seen, but there can be no doubt that it will clear the atmosphere. At last Europe knows, or thinks it knows, how far England will go.

Vague Statements

Many have been the ringing statements made recently in London and Paris, warning Herr Hitler that the Anglo-French brotherhood would defend Polish independence. But in every instance there has been a vagueness, studied or otherwise, about who would fight over Danzig, or why.

Germany has twitted the allies with this and asserted that neither Britain nor France would do battle over this issue. Newspapers in England and France have urged that an official declaration be made to clear up this uncomfortable situation.

A few days ago J. L. Garvin, famous editor of the London Sunday Observer, said of the Danzig imbroglio: "If Britain shirked the first test and blinked her pledges, no one in the world would believe that we had the guts for any test. Our name would smell."

Many Viewpoints

Well, now we have the answer. But that doesn't explain just why all the hullabaloo about Danzig. Why should Europe be prepared to go to war over this plump burgher of the Baltic? Here is the explanation from the viewpoints of the states involved:

Germany—Asserts its determination to reunite to the fatherland this former German city whose population is virtually all German and wishes to return to the Reich. Herr Hitler has declared himself champion of all German peoples.

Poland, England and France, however, say there is much more to it than this. They charge Germany with wanting Danzig because of its naval and military importance, as well as its economic value. There is an old saying that he who controls Danzig and the mouth of the Vistula rules Poland.

Premier Chamberlain in describing Danzig's importance to Poland asserted that another power established there "could, if so desired, block Poland's access to the sea and so exert an economic and military stranglehold upon her."

Danzig also would be of immense strategic importance to any nation engaged in war with a Baltic country or Russia.

Poland—Wishes to keep Germany out of Danzig for the reasons enumerated above. Also, Danzig provides a trade outlet for all the richest portion of Eastern Europe, including Poland. Should Poland be cut off from Danzig, and the recently-created port of Gdynia nearby, the nation would be hard-hit economically.

England and France—They want to "halt Hitler" in his drive to establish political and economic hegemony over central and eastern Europe and the Balkans. The independence of Poland is vital to this program.

Miss Florence Jacks, who left Saturday on a fall buying trip to New York City for the United Cloak shop, will return July 22.

Madison—Almost 3 per cent of the children in Wisconsin under 16 years of age are receiving aid under the dependent children's or "mothers' pension" program, a statistical report by the state pension department showed today.

With the number of children on the rolls increasing at the rate of 1 per cent a month, the children's phase of the social security program ranks next to the old age assistance program in expenditures.

There are 901,605 children in Wisconsin under 16. Of that total 26,518 are currently benefitting from the disbursements under the aid for dependent children law, for a percentage of 2.9.

The proportion is generally higher than the state average in the Fox river valley counties. Outagamie county, for example, has 728 children being aided out of a total under 16 years of 21,121, or 3.4 per cent. Brown county, with 22,791 children, has 700 on the pension rolls, for a percentage of 3.1 per cent.

Total Number

The total number of children on the rolls in the state at the present time represents 11,390 families, who last month received $418,199 in payments. The average per child for the state was $15.80, contributed by federal, state and local governments.

The range of county averages was from $9.57 to $21.62. Outagamie county paid an average of $13.38, while Brown almost equaled the state ratio with $15.75.

Kaws Must Defeat Kimberly to Stay In Race for Title

Eddie Schuler Slated to Pitch for Brews
Wednesday Night

Kaukauna—Kaukauna's Mel-low Brews will resume Fox River valley league competition here tomorrow evening against Kimberly, and need a win to remain in the fight for the second half title. The Kaws tied for second in the first half, winning six and losing three. Green Bay showed Sunday that the Kimberly nine is by no means unbeatable, smashing out a 14 to 5 decision, to hand the Papermakers their first loss of the year. The Kaws also have the little matter of an 11 to 0 whipping at Kimberly recently to avenge.

It was Art Hofkins who set the Kaws down in that game, and it appears as if Hofkins again will get the call tomorrow night. Lefty B. B. Papermaker, workhorse, pitched eight innings against Green Bay Sunday, and is not likely to be Manager Butch Thein's starting choice.

Two In Reserve
For Kaukauna it is almost certain to be Eddie Schuler, right-hander who in his last game took the measure of Green Bay, for his fifth valley league win of the year. His brother, Dago, and Pat McMahon, a newcomer, will be on hand if relief is necessary.

Manager Joey Vils recently revised his lineup, and the new array will start tomorrow night. Ralph Wurdinger, first base, Icky Van Drasek, second base, Joey Gertz, shortstop, Bob Van Drasek, third base, and Vils, Ves Kappell and Carl Schuler in the outfield will back up Eddie. Junior Martens will take care of the catching.

Four of the Brews are still in the race of league batting honors. Gib Busse, who will return to play Sunday against Manitowoc, and may see some action tonight, leads with .421, followed by Ralph Wurdinger with .395, Icky Van Drasek with .381 and Joey Gertz with .379.

Community Band Will Have Concert Thursday

Kimberly—The Community band will offer its fourth open air concert in the park Thursday evening under the direction of Prof. M. J. Heynen of Green Bay. Featured overtures, waltzes and marches will be heard during the program. Popular music has been ordered by the manager of the band this week and will be played at the next regular concert. The next program also will include the "Beer Barrel Polka."

Bernard Pigeon Is Winner in Closing Contest of Season

Kaukauna—A pigeon flown by Robert Bernard won the Kaukauna Pigeon club's last race of the season Sunday, a 500-mile race from Norfolk, Nebr., for old birds. The birds were released at 5 o'clock Saturday, with Bernard's winner coming into the loft at 4:23 Sunday morning.

The time of arrival of others who placed in the contest were Reuter brothers, 5:45; Jack Kissing, Seymour, 6:10; Stork and Helein, 6:54; William Martzall, 7:30 and 7:45; and Heimke, 7:40.

The club took part in seven races this season. Robert Bernard was the winner of three, Jack Kissing, of two, and Reuter Brothers, Stork and Helein and William Martzall one each. The outstanding accomplishment was Bernard's first in the concourse race from Norfolk, with 12 clubs of eastern Wisconsin competing.

CYO Squad Beats Kappell Taverns

Scores 7 to 2 Victory to Open Play in Second Half

Kaukauna—CYO softballers started the second half of city league play last night with a 7 to 2 victory over Kappell Taverns. The winners won the first half championship last week. Tonight the Golden Metals, a new entry in the league, will face the Ritz Tavern squad.

Carl Giordana was the winning pitcher last night, the CYO hurler allowing only five hits and striking out one. Carl Schuler, pitching for Kappell's in the absence of Bill Alger, their regular peger, suffered a bad first inning when all the enemy runs counted, but held the CYO to two hits the rest of the game. He also fanned one.

The big first inning put the game on ice for the CYO. After Junior Schumann had grounded out, Phelan Femal and Robert Van Drasek drew passes. Bob Promer sacrificed them along with Femal scoring on Giordana's single. Walks to Herman Franz and Gene Peranteau forced Van Drasek across. Singles by Bisekx and Schumann, a double by Cooper and Martens' error accounted for the last four runs.

Kappell's broke through in the second, with Mark Rohan, who had singled, and Carl Schuler, who had walked, scoring on Martens' double. Rohan had two hits to lead the losers, with Cooper collecting two for the CYO.

Appointment of McNutt Raises 3rd Term Issue

Several Meanings Attached to Action of President, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — When President Roosevelt selects Paul McNutt of Indiana for a post of importance in the federal government, he doesn't make just an ordinary appointment. He raises questions of a different kind — the third term issue.

For here is a former governor of a mid-western state who has made formal announcement of his intention to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination. True, Mr. McNutt has said he will not seek the nomination if Mr. Roosevelt wants it, but nevertheless the Indiana leader is given a pat on the back at a moment when the country is in the dark as to whether Mr. Roosevelt wants a third term. In one sense, the gesture can be considered as merely Mr. Roosevelt's subtle way of communicating to the public the fact that he is not standing in the way of anybody who wants to seek the Democratic presidential nomination. It is important for this to be established for otherwise it would look as if Mr. Roosevelt were trying to boss the situation and keep the party from exercising its own right of selection.

Another Meaning But there is still another meaning which is being attributed to the president's action. It is that Mr. McNutt is really an instrumentalist for the development of delegates who are friendly to the president's renomination, and that at the psychological moment the McNutt delegates will become Roosevelt delegates. There is also the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt would like to have Paul McNutt as his running mate. Certainly John Garner is not going to be a candidate for vice president again, so there's a vacancy on the ticket which Mr. McNutt appears to fill to the satisfaction of many New Dealers. First, he has been a New Deal type of governor and, second, he comes from a mid-western state where it is important that vice presidential candidates be obtained when the head of the ticket comes from New York.

It is a bit unusual to see a man appointed to office after he has announced that he is seeking the presidential nomination. There have been men in cabinet posts — William Howard Taft who was secretary of war in 1908 and Herbert Hoover who was secretary in 1928 — when presidential booms were started. In the case of Secretary Taft, the then president, Theodore Roosevelt, actually let it be known that he favored the secretary of war for the Republican nomination.

History might be repeating itself and the present occupant of the White House may be appointing Mr. McNutt as a way of putting his blessing on the candidacy of the former governor of the Hoosier state, but this version of the affair does not find many adherents in the national capital. The belief is held rather widely that Mr. Roosevelt has not made up his mind either whether he will run or whom he would select if he had to decide tomorrow the question of a successor for the Democratic nomination.

Too Conservative It may well be that the president is playing checkboard politics. He sees the friends of Vice President Garner active. He likes Jack Garner, but considers him and his friends too conservative for the perpetuation of the New Deal "reforms." He sees a liberal candidate like Senator Burton Wheeler of Montana coming out of the background into the foreground as a possible candidate. Certainly Mr. Roosevelt cannot contend that Mr. Wheeler is a conservative.

Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt wants to see as many candidates in the ring as possible. It means a bigger chance to draw to his side, either for his own nomination or for his own favorite, the liberals as distinguished from the conservatives. For, since Mr. Roosevelt cannot be an active candidate and delegates cannot be corralled for him without embarrassment, it is much better to see delegates lined up behind favorite sons who are amenable to New Deal strategy and purposes, whatever they may be in the first half of 1940. Nothing, therefore, is lost, and something may be gained from a political standpoint in selecting Paul McNutt to head the all-important division

1,112 Books Reported Circulated During Month at Library

Kimberly—Bud Harley, librarian, reported that 1,112 books were handled at the library last month. Five hundred and fifty-nine books were returned while 553 were issued. Of these 184 were juvenile and 23 were non-fiction books. Toward the end of the month there were 211 adult borrowers and 256 juveniles.

Books placed on the shelves during the month include: "Pride Stories of 1938," by Hanson; "High Pressure," Sprague; "A Peculiar Treasurer," Ferber; "The Man Who Killed Lincoln," by Stern; "American Years," Sinclair; "Danger Is My Business," Craig; "March to Quebec," Roberts; "American Transportation," Reck; "The Baker's Dozen," Morris; "The Runaway," Morris; "Second Meeting," Carr; "The Barclay Field," Mathan; "Royal Escape," Heyer; "The Lonely Road," Farnol; "Kalia," Princess; "Martha Bibesco Murder," Glason; "The Patrol Is Ended," De Wet; "The Road Beyond," Comstock; "Teem—A Treasure Hunter," Kipling; "Here Lies," Parker; "Sudden Rides Again," Strange; "Sunlight Ranch," Adams; "Three Were Thoroughbreds," Perkins; "This Notion, Danger," Gibbs; "So Big," Edna Ferber; "Show Boat," Edna Ferber.

Five new Junior Guild selections are: "Ju Ju and his Friends," Van Vrooman; "The Girl Who Was Margie," Tallant; "Chester," Bracker; "Joan and the Three Deer," Medary; "River Rising," Skidmore.

of the executive branch of the government to be known as the federal security agency.

Mr. McNutt is an able citizen and well qualified to do the job irreverently of his announced political ambitions. It certainly is a delicate thing, however, to ask political candidates to do administrative jobs wherein political factors are supposed to be wholly excluded. Mr. McNutt's willingness to take a job under these circumstances is puzzling, but so is everything about the third term game as it is being played by the New Deal strategists.

Freshman Senators Ignore Tradition in Upper House

BY EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
Washington—A lusty-lunged and loquacious crop of 14 freshman senators has disregarded the time-worn senate tradition that new lawmakers "keep their mouths shut and ears open."

Eight Republicans and six Democrats—each serving the first year of his term—have made at least one oratorical appearance. Some of them have done more talking than many senate oldsters.

Official reporters of debate, who keep a sort of boxscore on senators' "remarks," said these neophytes had spoken on the floor: Slattery (D-Ill.), Stewart (D-Tenn.), Wiley (R-Wis.), Tobey (R-Kans.), Lucas (D-Mo.), Reed (R-Kans.), Gurney (R-S.D.), Downey (D-Calif.), Danaher (R-Conn.), Clark (D-Idaho), Mead (D-N.Y.), and Barbour (R-N.J.).

Possibly most active in rough and tumble debate has been Senator

Taft, 50-year-old son of the former president.

Senator Wiley, 51-year-old Wisconsinite, has mixed in many arguments from the Republican side.

Least talkative have been two new Democrats, Stewart of Tennessee and Slattery of Illinois.

Stewart, 47, broke the oratorical ice by asking a few questions about railroad legislation. Slattery, 60, former chairman of the Illinois State Commerce Commission, made one speech in response to criticism of his conduct as an Illinois official.

Senator Barbour, New Jersey Republican who staged a comeback to regain a senate seat last fall, probably furnished the biggest laugh from a freshman.

Senator Reynolds (D-N.C.) told the senate of Barbour's pugilistic attainments as a youth, and Barbour arose to thank him for the kind reference to his old boxing days.

"My spirit, I think, is the same," Barbour said with mock serious-

New Post Would Give McNutt Inside Track for Nomination

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—The Democratic presidential outlook took a new turn over the weekend with the word that Paul V. McNutt of Indiana probably will become head of the vast new federal security agency. Included in the arrangement is an understanding that organization work in behalf of his presidential candidacy may continue.

No doubt the president and Mr. McNutt would deny there was any political significance in the offer of this important post. Yet it can scarcely be regarded except as a break for the former Indiana governor, a recognition of great confidence in him, which is bound to have considerable political meaning read into it, as Mr. Roosevelt out of his long experience well knows.

Governor McNutt is about to retire as United States high commissioner to the Philippines. He had intended to return to private life to pursue the presidential nomination in accordance with plans made many months ago. Campaign headquarters already are in action at Indianapolis.

The post as head of the federal security agency is Raymond Clapper new and one of the most important administrative assignments in the government, requiring large executive ability and imaginative talent. Furthermore it is the ideal job for a presidential aspirant because it reaches out to touch the American people with many friendly fingers.

More Important Than Cabinet Post

The new agency, created under reorganization plan no. 1, includes the following: office of education; United States film service and radio division, taken over from the national emergency council; public health service; social security board; United States employment service; national youth administration; civilian conservation corps; American printing house for the blind, taken over from the treasury.

The offer was made before the death of Claude Swanson, secretary of the navy, so that there is a possibility that plans might be changed and the navy department post offered instead, although that is not likely. Everything considered, the chances are that Mr. McNutt would prefer the federal security agency to the cabinet post because, as chief of the navy department, his activities would be more circumscribed and more concentrated in Washington, and would deal with matters more remote from the everyday life of the average person.

The federal security agency post is of more public importance than most of the cabinet places and carries an opportunity to do a large constructive job. No aspirant for the presidency could have a better springboard than it offers to demonstrate large-scale executive ability.

Would Need Active Support from Roosevelt

The understanding that campaign activities on behalf of Mr. McNutt could proceed while he occupies this outstanding post is particularly significant in view of the fact that others in the administration, notably Postmaster General Farley, have taken the attitude that they could not become active candidates until Mr. Roosevelt had made clear that he did not wish a third term.

Coming back from a distant assignment which had kept him out of the country for several years, Mr. McNutt steps into the center of the Democratic presidential situation. For some time the McNutt group has been definitely of the opinion that no one could be nominated or elected without the active support of President Roosevelt. For several weeks Mr. McNutt's assistant, Wayne Coy, has been here building up his chief among administration friends. He of the Valley council. The group will meet at the village hall.

The 70 scouts of the two local troops have passed their tenderfoot tests and are ready for the tenderfoot investiture ceremony which will be held as soon as their character is received from national headquarters. Over half the youths are preparing for their second class scouts badge.

Heil's Office Flooded With Bids for Title of Colonel

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—That Governor Heil has not been as generous in dispensing honorary colonelcies as most people believe was shown today in the revelation that there are more than 300 applications for such titles reposing in his executive office files.

Wisconsin's governor has made a national reputation by his proclivity for conferring military titles on his friends and official visitors. To date he has created 78 honorary commissions on his military staff, easily a record in the history of the Wisconsin governorship.

He has made colonels of visiting royalty, members of the legislature, political and personal associates, visiting newspapermen, and many others. He has appeared to derive a personal pleasure out of using the powers of his office to bestow honors upon his friends.

He has been ridiculed for his habit of creating colonels, and criticized for appearing to make light of an honored military title.

Idea Is Popular

That the idea is popular, however, among distinction-seeking citizens can be learned by the number of eager applicants for similar titles.

Legislators come to the office regularly to ask for honorary commissions for their friends. Others make their applications in person, sometimes even take along recommendations from sources supposed to have influence with the governor.

Even one congressman wrote to Heil asking that a man in his district be given a commission.

Executive office attaches have pointed out, however, that the commissions have been scarcer during the last month or two. While a dozen or two a month were appointed for the first few months, only a handful have come from the pen of the executive recently.

It has also been learned that the special insignia which Heil ordered recently for his honorary colonels were bought with his personal funds. Gold and in spread eagle design, the pins were designed with the assistance of Colonel Nicholas Schantz of the adjutant general's department and were distributed among the numerous members of Heil's honorary military family at the time of the national guard encampment review at Sparta recently.

CARRY ON, PREXY, CARRY ON!

According to District Attorney Byrne of New Orleans the former president of Louisiana State University had adopted the Post-Crescent's suggestion for his great court battle with the flippant and frivolous representatives of the people who are mulling some nonsense about the sacred nature of public funds.

Prexy, according to Mr. Byrne, "explained rather innocently" that the funds of other great institutions are used for "investment" and that he was "merely doing a good turn for L.S.U. when he entered the wheat market."

Mr. Byrne then pointed out to him that "the funds of other institutions are not used in gambling" whereupon Prexy gathered his dignity about him, fixed upon Byrne his cold and steady stare, and said quietly and softly, "I didn't look upon this as gambling."

Prexy is on the right road, the high road. The administration promised higher prices for wheat. His estimate of his duty in putting modern ideas to work is accurate and courageous. He is a martyr for the new thought, the bright day, cloudless, serene and sparkling. Other noble men of lofty purpose have been thrown into jails where they have suffered for the common good but eventually came into their own—and other peoples.

There was the noble Guffey of Pennsylvania who, while custodian of enemy property, saw no good reason why he should not use it as collateral to borrow hundreds of thousands of dollars with which to play the stock market that was bubbling like a Kentucky moonshine still after the war. Guffey eventually made the senate and joined the 100 per-centers.

But Prexy must be warned concerning the critical importance of the legal strategy to be employed from now on. Although we suggested the immediate engagement of a lawyer from the Irish Republican army if that band of patriots can postpone the bombing of London buildings and bridges for a time, the suggestion is by no means exclusive. Guffey obtained the dismissal of the indictments against him for embezzlement returned by a federal grand jury through the chivalrous act of Harry Daugherty who was then attorney general and recognized even more than a kindred spirit, in fact the hand of a master, in Guffey's plunging around with federal property.

Unless the indictments against Prexy can be quashed, squashed and hamstrung all field tactics must be aimed at getting to the people, who are sure to recognize nobility of purpose as the hallmark of character, that a wave of the arm may turn a deficit into an investment and that the selection of the right word can make a starving man realize he is really growing fat.

For the sake of humanity, the one-third ill-fed, the poverty stricken south and the right of everyone to be at least a Duke of Windsor Prexy must keep his head high and carry on in the glorious campaign of uplifting the masses from their sodden estate.

with the welfare of their members. And unions wither, decay and die when the contest deteriorates to a grab for the swag, or a clutch for power with the expectation of getting more swag through that means.

NEUTRAL NEUTRALITY

A neutrality act has only one purpose—to keep a country out of war by maintaining a sort of judicial indifference between the contestants.

It may fairly be assumed that almost our entire population in and out of office favors the course that will permit America to remain aloof from actual participation in the struggle. But what is that course? At present the controversy is whether to prevent the shipment of arms and munitions by America to any country or to give the President, instead, authority to fix war zones from which our vessels will be excluded.

As the rumble of approaching war may be heard even from the Mongolian borders it becomes evident that the embargo plan would assist one side more than the other, and that the war zone plan would be of help to the other side.

But why put an embargo on rifles and shells and none upon the ingredients from which they are manufactured? Cannot the cry of protest of the combatant hurt by American munitions be as effectively answered by a law excluding the name of the manufacturer from being impressed upon the rifle or shell made in this country? Isn't that practically the only difference in shipping materials and sending instead the manufactured article?

And if we close our ports against the shipment of guns and ammunition, and then against the materials from which they are made should we not just as logically prevent even the shipment of food lest a wounded soldier be led to say: I should not have been shot were it not for the strength given the enemy's trigger finger by American food?

We think that the rules of neutrality we establish should be determined solely upon a basis of justice and the American interest. Fortunately the two coincide. And the set of rules suggested were in existence long before congress ever tried to pass a Neutrality Act. They are referred to as international law.

These rules need modification only in respect to credits and payments. We learned from the last war that when the country gained a large financial interest in the result of a struggle it began to edge closer to the battlefield.

The strong coalition in the senate who favor an embargo on munitions are not supported by logic but, as between that plan and extending further authority to the President, irrespective of who is president, they are choosing the lesser of two evils.

WHERE NO BLOWS ARE BARRED

The Post-Crescent is in receipt of a copy of a resolution passed by the National Seaman's Self-Determination League, located in South Wales.

This well disposed organization has petitioned "His Majesty's Government" to call a meeting of all the maritime powers of the world in order to declare the submarine an unlawful weapon of warfare.

The seamen speak of the submarine as an assassin who waits in concealment for his prey "and stabs from the darkness of the ocean depths."

We were somewhat astounded to learn of this resolution. It indicates so much of youthful innocence, the robin on the wing, kittens and puppies at play on the lawn, dandelions growing just for those who want to blow and whisper, "She love me, she loves me not."

No doubt some of the members of this union served in the great war, went through it all, from poison gas to hidden bombs and were only saved from extinction because trained to be on guard against every form of treachery.

The seamen forget that those who can strike from concealment as does the submarine are classed as smart people. Did they really entertain the notion that in war one side wouldn't take advantage of the other?

Men forget. Nature in its kindness constructed them to throw off the memory of horror and shed weary and heart-sick recollections that could never make them happy.

But Nature has done her job too thoroughly. It was better if men could remember more distinctly the woe and wretchedness through which they once lived and at least call it to mind when the subject of war is uppermost with them again.

The seamen of South Wales must be informed that if you could ban and abolish from war the things that make it savage and that turn men into beasts you could abolish war itself and they must be informed again that far from concealing its miseries the man for whom the world is looking today is he who can invent something more terrorizing and destructive than a combination of submarines, bombers, poison gas and flame throwers.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York — Marben McCarthy, sports editor of the Chicago Times, came to town to do some items for his public, and found himself wanting to go to Brooklyn. Elbowing his way through the crowd on a subway station platform, Marben found a subway guard.

"How," he asked, "do I get to Church and Ocean Avenue in Brooklyn?"

The guard laid a comradely hand on the Chicagoan's shoulder, gazed at him compassionately, and said: "Brother, this town's a complete mystery to me, too!"

More adjectives have been written, spoken and invented to describe New York than there are I's in an egotist's autobiography. A compact set of them, done in verse, has come to me from a Memphis reader who says it was written in the register of the old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel 23 years ago. It isn't too true, I'm afraid, but it is picturesque:

Vulgar of manner and overfed;
Overdressed and underbred;
Heartless — Goddess — Hell's Delight;
Rude by day and lewd by night;
Purple-robed and pauper-clad;
Rotten, raving, money-mad;
A squirming herd in money's mesh;
A wilderness of human flesh;
Crazed by avarice, lust and rum —
New York, thy name's Delirium!"

Gee Whizz!

The store windows are full of books about New York — where to go, what to see, how to get there and why — because publishers have an idea the Fair will create special interest in the city. Lee Mortimer, who is one of the oftenest people I run into as I prow through the night with my magnifying glass and bloodhound seeking items, became so impressed with the extensive guidebook literature that he determined to write a guidebook to end all guidebooks.

Mortimer's book is "New York Behind the Scenes," the "Unofficial Guide Book." There isn't a word in it about Grant's Tomb, the Bronx Botanical Gardens, the Museums, or even the World's Fair. Lee believes there are too many other things which concern New York visitors more. Consequently he writes on such subjects as how to cash checks in New York, how to meet chorus girls, how to dodge (1) wives (2) husbands, how to get (1) married (2) divorced, where to see celebrities, where to get a shave late at night, where to eat and drink, and how to treat a hangover.

Most of the unusual services which can be found only in such a cosmopolitan city as New York are listed. Lee tells, for instance, where diamonds, furs, evening clothes and baby carriages may be rented, how to get escorts, male or female, where to buy silk hose or men's shirts on Sunday, and even where a professional worrier may be found. This latter gent will, for a fee, listen patiently to your troubles. (If you want him to worry in earnest, don't pay him; let him worry about THAT.)

Showboats are an all but lost amusement in New York waters this summer. A mere two opened the season, the S. S. Bear Mountain and the S. S. Claremont. Three years ago there were nine. The business, which looks good on paper, never has been sensational. Kay Parsons and Bobby Sanford, who were the principal showboat entrepreneurs, are not on the water this year, which may mean they have finally decided Old Man River is just a song.

Mickey Walker, the "loy bulldog" of prize-fighting a decade ago, is aboard the S. S. Claremont with a show called "Mickey Walker and his Boxing Beauties." The S. S. Bear Mountain's entertainment consists of vaudeville and a dance band.

There have been more women visitors to New York this summer than in many years, probably because of the Fair. They are easy to tell from native New Yorkers in most cases because of their unfamiliarity with some of the city's commonplaces and because their interest centers invariably on places which the natives take in stride. Many women visitors are unaccompanied by escorts—some have to stay home and earn the money—and go about in small groups. The unfeeling way to determine if the ladies are out-of-towners is to observe them when they get the check for dinner at a night club. It is generally higher than they figured (they overlooked the "location charge" or "minimum"); and they always take up a collection among themselves, carefully figuring each share of the expense. Another way to tell is to watch the water's face when he gets the tip. He is very, very unhappy.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, July 14, 1914

Over 1,500 people bathed in the Appleton swimming pool at the foot of Eldorado street the previous week, according to an attendant. The pool was rapidly increasing in popularity with both young and old seeking the cool waters during the day and night. Many were being taught to swim.

Arthur Durdell, 728 College avenue, and William Buchholz, 806 Lawe street, had combined their grocery stores and formed a corporation with capital stock of $8,000. The Lawe street building was to be used.

A. A. Barron, a veteran Appleton carpenter, celebrated his 88th birthday anniversary Monday at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. David Bretschneider.

John F. Behnke and Otto E. Jens had taken the remodeled building next to Saecker and Diederich's and were to open a clothing and gentlemen's furnishing store about Sept. 1. Mr. Behnke had been in the clothing trade for 22 years in Appleton while Mr. Jens had been with the Schlafer Hardware company the previous 14 years.

10 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, July 9, 1929

Mrs. Neale Spoor, Neenan, led the early qualifiers in the annual Women's Northeastern Golf association tournament which started Tuesday morning at Butte des Morts Golf club. She had a net score of 78.

The British submarine H-47, with 21 of her crew believed dead or trapped within her hull, that day was sunk in 270 feet of water in St. George's channel of the Pembroke coast. Only two of her normal crew of 23 was saved.

Frank Wheeler had been appointed to the library board to succeed Herman Beske, according to Mayor A. C. Rule. Frank Young had been appointed to the board.

Roger Schulz was to be the delegate from St. Mathew church to the delegate conference of the Wisconsin synod at Greenville Tuesday, July 23. The Rev. Philip Froehle was to attend the pastoral conference the following two days.

And as the long hours run,
You are my heart's one guest.
I miss the interchange
Of happy talk,
The plans we would arrange,

Here is your chair, your book,
The looking-glass,
That caught your bright young look
The door you used to pass.

All of your friends remain
The long day through
Waiting, like me, in vain,
And missing you.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The list of loans made to Latin American countries in that "historic fraud of the 1920's" as President Roosevelt called it, reads just like a PWA announcement of the 1930's.

Grover

The "historic fraud" was the period when American bankers with floods of fresh cash in their jeans began pouring loans southward. It was grand business then, and perhaps to some bankers looked like gilt-edged stuff at least for a time. Prosperity had hit South America just as handsomely as it had hit the United States.

The large banks lent the money south and then floated considerable quantities of bonds out among the people through the country banks. Such bonds were "high pressured" out but we remember distinctly at least one moderate investor who was grabbing every Chilean bond he could get his hands on because the interest was six to eight per cent. That was good money to sleep on during one's declining years.

Of course the story is old now. Except for Argentina, all the countries to the south which borrowed have defaulted on their notes. Cuba has largely revived her stock and likely others will try from time to time, especially if they have to make a good showing to get any of the $500,000,000 which President Roosevelt proposed to make available under the new lending-spending bill.

For 'Internal Improvement' The purpose of the proposed loans made then was internal improvement, a definition not far from that outlined by the President in his announcement of the lending plan. He planned to have the loans spent for U. S. goods, however. The port of Callao in Peru borrowed $25,000,000 in 1928 for port improvement. That same year we found Rio de Janeiro in Brazil borrowing $1,770,000 to move Castle Hill out of the way of city expansion.

Six years earlier the Government of Brazil borrowed $25,000,000 for electrification of a suburban division of the government-owned central railway and for other purposes. In 1923 Chile took $16,000,000 for such public works as public buildings, irrigation works, railroads and sewage systems. The city of Baranquilla, Colombia, borrowed $2,500,000 to improve the water and sewage systems, pave roads and build a packing plant.

In 1927 Peru borrowed $50,000,000 to stabilize her currency and finance a mortgage bank.

High-Powered Spending Cuba went on a spending binge in 1928, 1929 and 1930, borrowing $20,000,000 in the first two years and $40,000,000 in the third. The principal product was the 700 mile great central highway from tip to tip of the island, although waterworks, schools and sanitary systems also were built.

There was a tremendous enthusiasm about going into South America with loans during the twenties. Prior to the World War European countries had monopolized the South American capital market while Yankee bankers were included tightly out. Came the war and Europe needed all the cash it could get for its own affairs and the United States began moving in. A certain portion of the Yankee money went to clean out the European debts, although the Department of Commerce estimates it was not an extraordinary portion.

In any event, between 1914 when the World War started and 1938, when the next one was getting ready to start, United States investors poured $1,861,000,000 into Latin America for government bonds or government—guaranteed bonds. Of this, $1,072,000,000 is still outstanding, and of that outstanding, $711,000,000 now is in default.

That is the picture confronting Congress as it considers whether to make another half billion dollars available for Latin American improvements. There are plenty of arguments pro and con. If the United States wants to solidify the Pan-American axis, of course, money will spend it up.

Just a Step
Behind the News
By Dave Boone

Bob Jackson, the idea-a-week man, tells lawyers the government may have to step in and lower lawyers' fees so the average man can enjoy himself suing somebody.

Mr. Jackson told the junior bar association that lawyers charge so much for opinions that most people associate 'em with caviar, polo ponies and night club checks.

"Low cost, high volume legal service" is urged by the solicitor general, so a man who needs a lawyer can just put an attorney down on his shopping list together with meat, potatoes and half pound of cooking butter when he goes into town.

He seems to think some Henry Ford of the bar is needed to bring about quantity production at low cost and maybe issue a price catalogue and have a radio hour twice a week.

It is unethical for lawyers to advertise but I don't think we'll ever get out of a low case cheaply until the mouthpieces can all take big space in the newspapers, with adds like "our $100 opinions reduced to $32.75. This week only, Cuttlefish, Mahoney, Ginsberg, Cuttlefish and Cuttlefish."

Mr. Jackson won't go that far, even for a newspaper headline. I'm for bigger bargains from lawyers, too, but don't forget there's a big difference between asking a big fee and getting it. A lot of those $1,000 fees are still on the books to the tune of at least $250. Many a lawyer has to sue, too.

GUESS MAYBE THE DRIVER DIDN'T SEE YOU, OFFICER

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WINGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Although the idea probably won't crystallize because many persons don't consider that it is practicable, it has been suggested to Governor Heil that he appear in person before the state legislature to demand speedy action on the bills which he has designated as administration bills.

Wingard

The same sources have suggested that he pin the blame for some of the events and actions of the administration which Republican diagnosticians believe have cost votes on the legislature. An example was cited in the budget. Although Heil didn't do what some people expected him to do, the legislature undid some of the economies he had recommended. The lawmakers have also made appropriations which, while they may not have been against his will, were at least made without his active support, all of which tended to aggravate the serious financial problem about which the executive office has been growing gray hairs for the last six months.

SHORT SHOTS

William Rohan of Kaukauna, who feels he did the spadework for the farmer revolt against the milk price situation, feels aggrieved that a lawyer and a local political opponent have captured control of the organized movement which grew out of the same circumstances. Rohan feels that Gerald Clifford and Dr. W. C. Sullivan invaded what was properly his sphere when they organized the dairy-men's group at Green Bay recently.

If county highway departments continue to apply the heat on the legislature against Heil's highway department reorganization bill, there may be a blast from high quarters against their lobbying practices. Some capitol Republicans are beginning to wonder aloud whether the county board members and highway commissioners are wisely traveling on per diem, are wise in incurring the wrath of the administration, particularly since there is still a chance that the administration may have its way.

As one high official remarked the other day: "The legislature was elected by the people to do a job; it doesn't seem proper that county bureaucracy should attempt to interfere in the performance of that job?"

When a committee of northern county board members appeared before Governor Heil recently to ask for his support in a coordinated state-federal relief project for their area, Heil complained that some of their legislative representatives "don't cooperate." One of the uncooperative is Senator Nelson, Progressive whip in the upper house, who is increasingly called "Governor" Nelson by friends who wear knowing smiles as they do so.

Although the capitol Republicans are outwardly confident and self-assured, some of the Republican machine captains are beginning to let their hair down. One of them lamented the other day that one of his hardest jobs, in his political work, is "to convince people that we really know how to do this job of running a state government."

Although the executive office doesn't seem to realize it, the best way to antagonize Senator Francis Yindra of Manitowoc, a Democrat whose vote is sorely needed these

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SOMETHING TO WORRY ABOUT

Heaven knows a young woman and her parents or guardians have enough to worry about when the young woman accepts an offer of marriage these days, without dragging in any ugly morbid statistics. Yet in this vital matter ignorance is anything but bliss. It is far better for all concerned, the prospective bride, the prospective bridegroom, their families, friends and heirs, if any, to consider calmly and intelligently the serious facts on which are based laws (in many states) requiring at least syphilis tests of the applicants for marriage license. If the advice I gave in this column years ago were generally followed the intelligent portion of the population would have less to worry about. I advised that, instead of waiting until the time comes to obtain a marriage license, "a young man of upright character ought to obtain and offer his health certificate voluntarily as a preliminary to his engagement."

Even at that early day numerous readers, with what I thought and still think questionable chivalry, asked why the young woman should not submit the same evidence of her fitness to marry. From the elementary biological viewpoint, and in view of the moral standard which tacitly prevails, the question seems out of order.

Some of the legal requirements now being imposed on applicants for license to marry must be regarded as a step in the right direction but a timid step which should not deceive any well informed candidate for marriage. It is all very fine to have a Wasserman test of the blood for syphilis, when thirty days of the date of marriage, and a negative report—that is, of evidence of syphilis found. But what assurance does that give one contracting marriage that the marriage will not have disastrous consequences from latent smoldering or uncured gonorrhea?

As parent or guardian of a young woman eligible for marriage, if I could have but one test of the man seeking to marry her, I'd choose the test for gonorrhea unhesitatingly.

Syphilis does not naturally cease to be communicable after it has run a course of two years or so, in most cases. Probably it becomes only feebly communicable as soon as the secondary stage (skin rash and mucous membrane patches) has passed.

Gonorrhea never ceases to be communicable, even though the chronic or intermittent manifestations of the disease continue for many years after the acute symptoms of the early weeks have passed and been forgotten.

Of course not all men are liars and not all men are inquisitive. But so many of all degrees or classes of young men do sow wild oats in their heyday that there is no alternative but to regard all men as possibly infected until or unless a days in the senate, is to apply pressure from home. Yindra is easily angered and stubborn, now threatens to oppose the administration throughout. . . . Senator Harry Bolens, while the administration was secretly completing its plans for diversion of $7,500,000 of highway funds, proposed that an additional one cent gasoline tax be levied to raise that figure to about $12,000,000. . . . His suggestion was vetoed, however, as too radical. . . . R. O. Winkelman, former lobbyist for the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association, has become an unofficial secretary, a finance minister without portfolio, for Governor Heil according to recent indications. . . .

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Split Nails

What causes the splitting of fingernails which I and many of my friends endure? Don't say polish, for I've always used polish and never had this trouble until the past year or so. (Mrs. D. L. E.)

Answer—All right, then, I'll guess nutritional deficiency, possibly achromic anemia. At any rate the nails become trophic, thin, brittle, ridged or split when the individual has a shortage of the essential vitamins and calcium and iron—the minerals may not be lacking in the food, but vitamin shortage impairs capacity to assimilate and retain the minerals. ### NOT THE FIRST

Editor Post-Crescent: A citation under "Looking Backward" for July list, quotes Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence College as stating that "the first college YM.C.A. of North America was established in Appleton in 1870. . . . Robert Weidensall was the acting secretary at that time, and was the first traveling secretary of the international committee."

Although Lawrence was early on the list in this section, yet the original student associations had been formed twelve years previously, on October 12, 1858, at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, basing its constitution upon those of the Y.M.C.A. of London (1844), and Boston (1851), and in January of the same year, at the University of Michigan, in Ann Arbor, taking, however, the name of Students' Christian Association. Both consisted of twelve years of education did not arrive in Ann Arbor until 1870, "Uncle Robert" as all of us younger secretaries called Mr. Weidensall, narrated to me many years later that he "had quite a hard time with the old Doctor" (President G. M. Steele) to convince him that a voluntary association of this type had any place in a church-founded university where the faculty were already caring for the Christian development of the students.

As to coeducational features, of course the girls belonged here, held office, etc., in the fashion prevalent in the mid-western institutions. Fifty Years of Association Work among Young Women (page 122) relates that "the table of Student Associations in the International Young Men's Christian Association Year Book under the date of 1882-1883 lists its officers in this manner: 'Lawrence University, Appleton, Wisconsin, president, A. Wilson; corresponding secretary, C. Althouse.' It does not indicate that Miss Annis Wilson was a prize mathematician, then in her sophomore year, and that Miss Carrie Althouse was the best soprano singer on the campus." Faithfully,

Record Tobacco, Corn Crops Seen

Secretary Wallace Faces New Problem Even Before Solving Old One

Washington—The largest tobacco crop on record and a corn crop far above normal threatened today to shoulder Secretary Wallace with new surplus problems as he embarked on a $928,000,000 program designed to help solve old ones.

A forecast by the federal crop reporting board yesterday raised the possibility of unmarketable supplies of corn and tobacco.

A record surplus of 13,350,000 bales of cotton has been Wallace's biggest worry for months. All of concern have been large supplies of wheat, rice, dairy products and fruits.

On his recommendation, congress voted an unprecedented sum of $203,000,000 to finance the disposal of a portion of these surpluses. Some of the money will be used to distribute commodities among the nation's relief families. The remainder will be used to offset losses in selling some of the products to foreign markets at cut-rate prices.

The remaining $725,000,000 will be divided among farmers who curtail their planting operations.

Officials said that if the August report indicates a corn crop of around 2,570,785,000 bushels—the amount forecast yesterday—the supply for the coming season might necessitate special governmental action to prevent unduly depressed prices. There is an estimated surplus of between 400,000 and 450,000,000 bushels from previous years.

The tobacco crop was forecast at 1,654,622,000 pounds, compared with an average crop of 1,360,400,000 pounds.

Weyauwega Fire Damage Is $4,500

Hardware Store, Meat Market are Damaged By Flames

Fire believed to have started from defective wiring caused damage estimated at $4,500 to two downtown Weyauwega store buildings last night.

The blaze started in a rear store room of the E. E. Bratz Hardware company, a 40 by 60-foot structure, and spread to the Carpenter Brothers Meat Market, a building 30 feet wide and 60 feet long.

The rear portions of both structures were badly damaged and the stock in the hardware store was damaged by smoke and water. Both buildings will need reconstruction. Damage to the hardware store was estimated at $4,000 while the loss at the meat market may exceed $500. Both buildings are covered by insurance.

The Weyauwega fire department had the blaze under control in half an hour but stayed on the job for about three hours removing dynamite and other stock from the hardware store.

The alarm was turned in by Mrs. Dorothy Tibbeck, Main street, Weyauwega, who saw smoke coming from the hardware store.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Congress was called upon today by the milk problems committee of the Holstein-Friesian association of America to strike from the proposed amendments to federal agriculture marketing agreements a proposal that would exempt special breed of breed of cattle by which it is produced, to share equally in bearing the burden of handling surplus milk.

House Group to Fight Weakening of Labor Act

Washington—Representative Fries (D-Ill.) said today a group of 82 house members would try to stop any attempt by a proposed investigating committee to emasculate the Wagner labor act.

A resolution for an inquiry into the law's operation will come before the house next week. Fries said his group would offer a provision that any findings or recommendations should be transmitted to the house labor committee.

"With clever conniving," Fries said, "an investigating committee of the kind that probably will be appointed could send its legislative suggestions to another committee which might be more friendly to its findings."

McNutt Appointed As Administrator Of Security Body

the World war, serving as dean from 1925 until his election as governor in 1932. He held a four-year term in that office, in which a man cannot succeed himself. He went to the Philippines in February, 1937.

HOOSIERS REJOICE

Indianapolis—Indiana Democrats hailed jubilantly today Paul V. McNutt's appointment as federal security administrator as President Roosevelt's tacit approval of the white-haired Hoosier's presidential aspirations.

McNutt leaders here would not discuss for publication the political implications in his selection, but "off the record" statements disclosed unanimity of belief that McNutt will receive Roosevelt's blessing in the 1940 national convention.

"The appointment means the president and Paul are in complete accord," said one spokesman who declined to permit use of his name. "Paul can't be stopped now," said another.

The reaction from rank and file Democrats who were part of McNutt's administration as governor was much the same.

Put Him in Spotlight

It was pointed out McNutt would be able, in the role of federal security administrator, to make numerous public appearances in behalf of the agency's work, and yet not be vulnerable to the accusation of using the office to further his presidential aspirations.

Meanwhile, "his friends"—the organization already actively building up his delegate strength—could continue his campaign unabated.

The McNutt leaders were quick to discount a theory that the former Indiana governor's selection for the security post is a "sidetracking" effort.

"He wasn't 'sidetracked' when he was sent to the Philippines," was their answer.

Be A Careful Driver

That probably the hottest place in Appleton last Thursday, the day that bothered almost everyone, was atop the roof of main hall at Lawrence college where workmen are putting on a copper roof. A carpenter working on the job said the temperature reached 135 degrees on the roof top. It was so hot, he said, that he burned his hand when he reached for a steel tool which had been laying in the sun.

That among the articles, valued at $33, stolen from a car owned by Thomas Bock, 310 W. College avenue, while it was parked near the west end of the city Saturday evening, was a marriage license. ## New Spell of Hot Weather Appears; Mercury Hits 90

Heat Blanket Beginning To Spread Over Entire Middle West

A new hot spell got underway today as the weatherman predicted generally fair weather tonight and Wednesday with warmer temperatures tomorrow. The thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building registered 90 degrees early this afternoon but the high humidity that made last week's heat wave so oppressive in this area was not in evidence.

Temperatures began skyrocketing in most of the middle west as the heat wave gathered steam in the northern Rocky mountain and plains states region and overflowed into the Great Lakes area today. Forecaster J. R. Lloyd of the weather bureau predicted the mercury would hit 110 in some western points today and temperatures in the low 90's would be general in the Great Lakes region tomorrow.

Maximum and minimum temperatures in Appleton and vicinity during the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning were 80 degrees at the end of the period and 62 degrees at 4 o'clock this morning, a climb of 18 degrees in five hours, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Highest and lowest temperatures in the nation yesterday were at Phoenix, Ariz., with 110 degrees and Sault Ste. Marie with 49 degrees, according to the Associated Press.

Lending Proposals to Face Bitter Attacks in Congress; Hearings Set for This Week

Washington—While administration lieutenants were pressing for prompt enactment of President Roosevelt's $2,800,000,000 lending program, signs of stormy opposition appeared today in both house and senate.

Legislation to carry out the program was submitted yesterday, and chairman of the banking committee in both chambers ordered brief hearings this week.

The program would provide for federal loans for such projects as toll roads, public works and rural electrification, designed to be self-liquidating. The RFC would do the financing, and congress would make appropriations to meet deficits whenever it appeared that assets were not worth their book value.

Chairman Wagner (D-N.Y.) of the senate banking committee and Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) pointed out that the administration made one major concession in abandoning a proposed $500,000,000 in foreign loans. It substituted a $100,000,000 increase in the Export-Import bank authorization for financing exports.

Self-Liquidating

Other senators contended that only a few of the proposed projects actually would be self-liquidating. "There will have to be a substantial curtailment of this program before I can support it," remarked Senator George (D-Ga.).

Senator Connally (D-Texas) said of the proposal to lend money to build toll roads:

"I don't know of a road in the United States, except possibly one between Washington and New York that could be self-liquidating on a toll basis. The people just won't use them when free roads are available."

From Senator Glass (D-Va.), foe of administration fiscal policies, came the terse comment: "You can get anything through congress that will spend money."

On the house side, Republican Leader Martin (R-Mass.) called the program "that glorified presidential pork barrel."

Representatives Williams (D-Mo.) said that "if the administration insists on passage at this session, we undoubtedly will be here until Sept. 1."

Major controversies were expected in the senate over proposals to grant substantially increased old age benefits and to give less-wealthy states a larger proportionate share of federal old age pension funds.

Acting Minority Leader Austin (R-Vt.) said Republicans would oppose amendment of the present 50-50 matching arrangement for the distribution of government pension money.

Pardoned From One Life Term, Woman Now Faces Another

New York—Mrs. Ruth St. Clair, who was freed from a life term in prison two years ago, was back in jail today, again facing the possibility of prison for life.

The first woman to be sentenced mandatorily to a life term under the state's fourth-offender law was arrested yesterday in a midtown department store for the alleged theft of three men's shirts valued at $4.95.

The accusation of shoplifting was the same as that which resulted in her life sentence to prison in 1930 as a fourth offender. The case aroused a controversy then which lasted for years.

Her commutation, as a Christmas gift, by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in 1937, followed an inquiry into her case by President Roosevelt, when he was governor.

First Evangelical Congregation Votes to Build Addition

Neenah—The congregation of First Evangelical church of Neenah voted to proceed with plans for building an addition to and remodeling of the church structure at a meeting Monday evening in the church. The cost of the project is estimated at $25,000.

Hugo Hauser, architect, who already had drawn preliminary sketches which were approved by the congregation, is in Neenah today to discuss additional matters before completing the blueprints and submitting specifications. Members of the local building committee are Dan Howman, chairman; Howard Schultz, secretary; Edward Schurz, treasurer; C. A. Schmidt, Mrs. L. J. Howman, Fred Helms, Walter Malchow and the Rev. Roy W. Berg. A considerable amount of the project cost already has been subscribed.

Change in Entrance

According to present plans, the main entrance to the remodeled church will be from W. Forest avenue which is now the rear of the church. The change will be shifted to the opposite end of the auditorium and a small addition built for the choir. The main addition will be at the rear of the church and will consist of a large social room with a stage at one end, and a kitchen at the other. The departmental church school rooms will be included in this unit also. The church especially has been in need of better facilities for its church school.

The new church will be the third building in which the congregation has worshipped. Older members of the church remember the first building erected in 1839 on the plot of ground now occupied by the Roosevelt school. The church was later used by the city of Neenah as a public school building and voting place. The present church building was erected in 1891 but today is inadequate for the growing needs of the congregation.

The present pastor, the Rev. Roy W. Berg, recently appointed to the pastorate, is no stranger to many of the congregation, as his father, the late Rev. F. Berg, lived in Neenah for three years following his retirement from active ministry. The elder Rev. Mr. Berg was assistant pastor of the local church in 1893 and it was at this time that he met and married Mrs. Augusta Hillman Berg who at present is a resident of Neenah and a member of the church.

"American Dreyfus" Believes 40-Year Fight Is Almost Won

BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM Chicago — (U) — Oberlin Montgomery Carter, sometimes called "the American Dreyfus," who turned 83 today, hoped for "the finest birthday present I could receive"—complete victory in his 40-year fight to disprove charges that he defrauded the government.

Carter, former captain of engineers, was convicted by court martial and served nearly five years in Leavenworth prison. He was accused of having appropriated for his own use some $176,000 of government money while superintending improvements in the Savannah, Ga., harbor at the close of the nineteenth century.

Carter has compared himself with Alfred Dreyfus, the French officer who was sent to Devil's island on the strength of forged documents. Representative Jenkins (R-Ohio), a supporter of Carter, likewise has called the case an "American Dreyfus."

The chief figure in the cause celebre and his friends took heart from action of the house of representatives military affairs committee which voted July 6 to approve a bill which would nullify the verdict of the court martial. The bill would instruct the secretary of war to correct Carter's military record "to show that the judgment of court martial was and is wholly unlawful, invalid and void" because the "reviewing officer, instead of basing his approval (of the verdict) upon the evidence . . . used and considered forged and perjured evidence."

Consideration of the case by the senate was expected this week, possibly today. The court found for the commission on its 3.41 depreciation rate instead of the company's 4.32 per cent. The commission had declared this order would reduce operating expenses, thus increasing the possibility of a customer rate reduction. Judge Hoppmann said that commission's finding as to toll charges was substantiated by the evidence.

In circuit court the company contended that in reducing "local service" rates the commission should at the same time have raised long distance charges. Company counsel argued a subscriber's monthly bill covered not only local service, but also the "readiness-to-serve" of the long distance system and that therefore the latter division was entitled to part of the revenue from the regular monthly bill.

Commission attorneys asserted the charge on a long distance call provided all the revenue the system was entitled to receive. The company had estimated a loss of $250,000 annually in the long distance division under the commission's permanent rate reduction. The commission had declared this order would reduce operating expenses, thus increasing the possibility of a customer rate reduction. Judge Hoppmann said that commission's finding as to toll charges was substantiated by the evidence.

ter a commission rehearing, the company appealed to the Dane county circuit court which enjoined application of the 1934, 1935 and 1936 orders. Judge Hoppmann, however, ordered the company to deposit with the court monthly "sums sufficient to reimburse subscribers if the permanent final order was upheld. The fund now totals approximately $3,000,000.

Trial began before Judge Hoppmann in January, 1937, but the case was remanded to the commission in April, 1937, and returned four months later. In December, final arguments were concluded, and Judge Hoppmann took under advisement approximately 15,000 pages of testimony and thousands more statistical exhibits.

Three Major Factors Much of the argument centered around three elements prescribed by the commission on the basis of a 1930 supreme court interlocutory decision for determining rates for bell system companies — fairness of Western Electric prices, of American Telephone and Telegraph (parent company) charges for its services of earnings between local and long distance systems.

In February, 1938, Judge Hoppmann upheld the commission's 1935 depreciation order, and overruled the two other orders. Both sides appealed to the supreme court which handed down its decision today. Judge Hoppmann ruled the company had no "full and fair hearing," that the commission should have set a "going value" figure, that Western Electric did not overcharge for its supplies, and that A. T. and T. was reasonably paid for its services on the basis of 14 per cent of the Wisconsin company's annual gross earnings.

Back Depreciation Rate The court found for the commission on its 3.41 depreciation rate instead of the company's 4.32 per cent. The commission had declared this order would reduce operating expenses, thus increasing the possibility of a customer rate reduction. Judge Hoppmann said that commission's finding as to toll charges was substantiated by the evidence.

The chief figure in the cause celebre and his friends took heart from action of the house of representatives military affairs committee which voted July 6 to approve a bill which would nullify the verdict of the court martial. The bill would instruct the secretary of war to correct Carter's military record "to show that the judgment of court martial was and is wholly unlawful, invalid and void" because the "reviewing officer, instead of basing his approval (of the verdict) upon the evidence . . . used and considered forged and perjured evidence."

Consideration of the case by the senate was expected this week, possibly today. The court found for the commission on its 3.41 depreciation rate instead of the company's 4.32 per cent. The commission had declared this order would reduce operating expenses, thus increasing the possibility of a customer rate reduction. Judge Hoppmann said that commission's finding as to toll charges was substantiated by the evidence.

In circuit court the company contended that in reducing "local service" rates the commission should at the same time have raised long distance charges. Company counsel argued a subscriber's monthly bill covered not only local service, but also the "readiness-to-serve" of the long distance system and that therefore the latter division was entitled to part of the revenue from the regular monthly bill.

Commission attorneys asserted the charge on a long distance call provided all the revenue the system was entitled to receive. The company had estimated a loss of $250,000 annually in the long distance division under the commission's permanent rate reduction. Hollywood—I'm planning to spend considerable time on the far edge of the set when W. C. Fields and Mae West start their co-starring picture for Universal. There are explosive possibilities in that combination, for never were two more incompatible stars hatched to a single wagon. Consider their methods of laughing. Mae coins her cracks as painstakingly as an Amsterdam lapidary cuts his precious gem; Fields' great W. C. is the most unpredictable alibier in captivity. She works hours to polish a three-word sentence, then fits it carefully into its exact place. He, on the other hand, blithely throws away his script and says anything that pops into his fertile brain. If forced to follow a prescribed course, he's as unfunny as a mortician. Contrarily, if her well-planned speeches are messed-up by unexpected sallies, Mae is apt to blow sky-high. And consider the little matter of who's going to be dictator of that set. Both Mae and Bill are in the habit of ruling the roost like a pair of Hitlers. And neither is an adversary to be regarded lightly when it comes to incisive, ego-piercing verbal thrusts.

Yes, I think of California's far-famed gentle summer gets a temperature boost it will be from the heat generated on that set. May Heaven protect the poor director—a Roman Holiday is being readied and he, unfortunate wight that he is, looks much like the victim selected to be thrown to the lions.

Republicans to Consider Boost In Gasoline Tax

Proposal Advanced as Way to Balance State Budget

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison — Republican administration men at their caucus this evening will attempt to do that which they have been trying to do without success for the last six weeks, agree upon a way to extract enough money from the taxpayers of Wisconsin to balance the budget which they passed two months ago.

With a majority opinion apparently turned against diversion of highway money as one means of raising what they need, discussion today centered about alternative plans.

One method suggested today by finance committee leaders and scheduled for consideration at tonight's meeting is a new motorists' tax through a levy of an additional 1-cent a gallon on gasoline, and new taxes on oil and auto grease.

Such a method, it was expected, would just about equal in receipts the $7,500,000 originally planned to be appropriated from regular highway revenues.

Previously Rejected

Some sources said that an additional gasoline tax and oil and grease taxes would raise in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 for the biennium.

It was considered significant that such a proposal should now come from the Republicans when only a few weeks ago an identical suggestion for an additional gasoline tax by Senator Harry Bolens, Democratic leader, was rejected by the administration high command.

According to opinions of Capitol Republicans today, the other features of the Heil tax bill—liquor, increased income and corporation taxes, chain store tax, and a cigarette tax—are likely to remain in the measure when it finally reaches the floor in completed form.

If a final tax bill is evolved at the caucus tonight, it is scheduled for preliminary action in the assembly Wednesday morning. Close observers, however, held out little hope for early passage of a revenue bill, mainly because of the obvious lack of agreement on any of the money-raising methods which have been advanced thus far.

KIMBERLY BOY WINS FISHING PRIZE

Six-year-old Jimmie Malcolm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Malcolm, 135 James street, Kimberly, is shown above admiring the new rod and reel he received yesterday for winning the Appleton Post-Crescent's Dad and Son Fishing Week contest. Showing Jimmie which end catches the fish is E. L. Biselex, Post-Crescent staff member in charge of the contest. Although he is only a youngster, Jimmie is a veteran at fishing for he's been going to lakes with his father for the last three years. The fish he caught was a northern pike weighing eight pounds and one ounce. Jimmie hooked the fish in Lake Poygan June 19, the second day of the contest, and his father helped him land it. # Jimmie Malcolm, Kimberly, Is Winner of Dad, Son Contest

BY E. L. BISELEX

Jimmie Malcolm, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Malcolm, 135 James street, Kimberly, today was declared the winner of the Appleton Post-Crescent's Dad and Son Fishing Week contest.

Second only to the thrill of catching the big, 8-pound northern pike that won the contest for him, was Jimmie's excitement when he saw the rod, reel and line that was his prize.

Jimmie hooked the pike, which weighed about eight pounds, one ounce, while fishing with his dad at Lake Poygan June 19, the second day of the contest. His dad was still fishing and Jimmie had a minnow out on the end of a line tied to his cane pole.

Although he's not so big, Jimmie is a veteran of the sport for he's been fishing with his dad for the last three years. When he hooked the big one, he cried excitedly: "Dad, I got a big one." His dad told him to pull it to the boat and he helped him land the fish.

Likes to Fish

Jimmie is one of those died-in-the-wool fishermen who won't take no for an answer when he wants to go along on a fishing trip, his dad says. Jimmie's going to give the rod and reel a try at Lake Winnebago Saturday.

The rod was the gift of the Post-Crescent while the reel and line were given by the Appleton chapter of the Izaak Walton League joint sponsors of the contest. The Dad and Son Fishing Week idea was originated in Appleton a year ago and this year became state-wide through the proclamation of Governor Heil. The national chapter of the Walton League also has endorsed the idea, started to promote a better relationship between fathers and sons.

Russell Dohr, 16, 321 S. Walnut street, was second and hooked a northern pike, weighing seven pounds, seven ounces, at Pine Lake June 22. Third place went to Clarence Meltz, 9, 1601 N. Morrison street, who caught a sheepshead, weighing four pounds and two ounces at Lake Winnebago June 18. Meltz was last year's winner.

Seven-Day Deer Hunting Season Asked in State

Conservation Group Favors Nov. 25 as Opening Day in 33 Counties

Madison — (P) — The Wisconsin Conservation Congress swept aside objections of five county delegations last night and voted for a seven-day hunting season in 33 counties beginning Nov. 25.

An overwhelming majority prevailed upon the Lincoln, Sawyer and Forest county committees to disregard instructions from local sportsmen and retract their original vote for a closed season. The Vilas and Juneau delegates protested vainly to the end against allowing a fourth consecutive annual hunt in their counties.

The final vote for the week's hunt in the solid bloc of northern and central counties was 69 to 2. Sauk, Columbia and Marquette counties joined last year's bloc of 30 with the limitation that hunters in those counties, because of the density of population, be permitted only to shotgun loads with lead ball shells.

The congress recommended that the conservation department again outlaw the killing of any deer except fork horn bucks and set up the requirement that the fork on the antler be at least one inch long.

Would Keep Law

Ernest F. Swift, deputy conservation director, strongly urged continuation of the fork horn law, asserting it has been of inestimable value in protecting hunters from careless brush shooting. The congress also favored renewal of the ban on small bore rifles and shotguns.

A black bear hunting season in the 30 counties open last year, the dates to be concurrent with the deer season, was recommended with scarcely any dissent as the delegates sped through their program to clear the way for today's consideration of fishing regulations.

Sentiment for a special bow and arrow deer hunting season was especially strong. The eight counties in which the archers hunted last fall and several others, including Jackson, Monroe, Marinette and Burnett, offered such a variety of suggestions that Swift laid the matter over for consideration at a separate conference.

The congress, heading the advice of Chief Warden Barney Devine to "save this valuable fur-bearing animal," voted for a statewide closed season on beaver despite opposition from delegates of Forest, Florence and Bayfield, included in the northern tier of 15 counties where beaver trapping was allowed last spring.

Other Hunting Seasons

The delegates recommended raccoon and skunk seasons of 40 days, beginning Oct. 28, with a bag limit of two per day and a season limit of 12 each. The squirrel hunting dates were set for Oct. 14 to Dec. 1 with a daily limit of five and a possession limit of 10.

The blue heron and the blue jay, criticized freely for their fish eating and egg sucking proclivities, were placed on the unprotected bird list.

Sixteen central Superior and Michigan counties voted to join a grouse-hunting league along the Mississippi river in establishing duck hunting blinds not more than 100 feet from the shoreline. Of the lakeshore counties, Brown alone held out against changing from regulations permitting blinds wherever vegetation provides concealment.

Elections to the congress' new council were announced by districts as follows: (first name member, second alternate): First, Dr. J. A. Riegel, Polk, and Edward E. Omerick, Washburn; Second, John O. Leary, Onida, and Frank Brunner, Iron; Third, A. H. Pittenger, Oconto, and R. F. Deemer, Marinette; Fourth, Fred S. Hintz, Chippewa, and V. L. Dickenson, Eau Claire; Fifth, Dr. H. O. Schneiders, Marathon, and C. A. Seals, Wood; Sixth, H. O. Giese, Green Lake, and George H. Dobbins, Waupaca; Seventh, Howard J. Leppia, Calumet, and Dr. L. H. # Be A Careful Driver

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk" and "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such as a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the source of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Trauch and family of Chicago visited relatives and friends here on Sunday.

The condition of Mrs. Ida Lunjak who has been ill at her home for the last two weeks is somewhat improved but is still confined to her bed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kleehn attended the funeral services for Miss Mary Katherine Fryer at Wauwatosa Saturday.

The Ladies Aid society of the Friedens Evangelical and Reformed church held its monthly meeting at the church parlors Friday afternoon. During the meeting it was decided that the next meeting will be held at Horn park. The hostesses were Mrs. Edgar Horn and Mrs. Norbert Horn. Mrs. William Leonard of Bensonville, Ill., was a guest at the meeting.

MOUND BUILDERS

The highest Indian mound in Ohio is the Miamisburg Mound. It is in the shape of a cone with a very broad base. The height is given as 68 feet. At the base it is more than 250 feet wide!

West Virginia has an even larger cone-shaped mound. It is known as the Grave Creek mound, and rises to a height of 70 feet.

Men who have dug into the Grave Creek mound have found skeletons inside. They also have dug up shell beads, copper bracelets and ornaments which were made from mica.

It is believed that the West Virginia Mound Builders obtained their mica by trading with Indians of North Carolina. Sometimes the mica was used to cover wooden beads; in that way the beads were made to look like pearls.

Mica was sometimes cut into special shapes. A fine figure of a human hand, made from mica, was found in one of the mounds, also a mica outline of the foot and claws of an eagle.

Real pearls, obtained from clams, were known to the Mound Builders, and many of them—cut for necklaces—have been taken from certain mounds. Other kinds of beads used by these people were made from clam shells, from bear teeth and from copper.

Some idea of the wide use of fresh-water pearls by the Mound Builders was brought out by the work of Prof. F. W. Putnam. In a single mound in Hamilton county, Ohio, Putnam and his helpers found 60,000 of these gems!

For the most part, the pearls found in Indian mounds are "soft and crumbly" and not of great value, but this is not true in all cases. A beautiful necklace with more than a hundred pearls in good condition was dug up in Ross county, Ohio.

Tobacco pipes are other common objects taken from mounds. More than 200 of them were dug up from under the Tremper mound in Ohio. The bowls for the tobacco are in the center of images. Some images are of birds, such as the hawk, the eagle and the bob-white. Others have the form of furry animals, including the raccoon, the squirrel and the dog. The dog seems to have been the only "domestic" animal known to the Mound Builders.

Quite a number of the pipes look like modern cigar-holders. It is likely that the Mound Builders rolled tobacco leaves into cigars of a crude type and placed them in the tubes for smoking.

New London—New London Legion Juniors dropped their first game of district play to Wisconsin Rapids, 9 to 5, at the Rapids Monday afternoon. A return game will be played at the city ball park here at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

He finished the game with one hit and no runs.

The winners got 12 hits, a home run and doubles. Stern fanned eight and walked two. Poppy whiffed five.
